WELCOME TO THE PALMER RAIDS!

In this hands-on investigative activity, students are given an authentic task: to think like criminalists and review mock forensic files of a historical event. Students gather, analyze, and interpret evidence, engaging in tasks such as examining physical objects (e.g., a model of a guillotine, bullets, a blood-spattered uniform), poring over photographs, analyzing documents, and reading maps and charts. A PowerPoint® presentation includes an introduction to the task, a coroner's report, and several types of sources from the "crime scene." Students then fill out a "forensic report" graphic organizer, hypothesize how the event took place, and conclude by reading a "Mystery Solved" handout that provides historical background on the "crime." Optional extension activities include having students create a "breaking news" TV report, write a front-page newspaper article, or compose a "news alert" text message. Grades 6–12.

Purpose and Overview

Activity Introduction

Welcome to History's Mysteries: Solve the Crime of the Time. Included are investigative case files that cover some of the main areas of world history standards-based curriculum. The central purpose of these files is to spark interest and excitement in students for further study of a given unit.

A History Mystery is rooted in having students act like a criminalist whose job is to gather, analyze, and interpret forensic evidence. Real-life criminalists are skilled in studying everyday items, examining bullets, and analyzing documents. Likewise, in a history class a teacher's job is to help students develop critical thinking skills also based in gathering, analyzing and interpreting data.

In this hands-on investigative activity, students are given an authentic task—to think like criminalists and review mock forensic files of a historical event. Each file contains primary and secondary source replica/realia that students analyze in order to hypothesize how a given event took place.

This activity works best as an introduction to a world history unit, but it may also be used as a way to review before a DBQ based assessment at the end of a unit. Students are motivated to solve each Mystery both with accuracy and speed as the first student/team to do so correctly wins a "Criminalist of the Year" nameplate for classroom display.

How does a History Mystery work?

Students are given the task of reviewing a historical event case file and filling out a Forensic Report. Once this initial step is completed, students then read a Mystery Solved: Press Release that reveals all the accurate details of the real life History Mystery.

Each History's Mysteries Case File review and Forensic Report are completed in a single (60 minute) class session. The follow up Mystery Solved: Press Release reading and follow up activities (Front Page News, Breaking News Report, or Text Message News Alert) can take another half to full one hour class period.

Each unit comes with reproducible student analysis sheets, teacher directions, student directions, CD-ROM that allows students to view the files on a computer (or the entire class with an LCD projector).

Teaching tip

For more scaffolding and challenge to the activity, you can also add a step where students work on a Front Page News Article, Breaking News Report, or a Text Message News Alert in which students further synthesize what they believed took place in either an essay, short skit, or short summary form (for better language mastery, beginner or advanced writing skills, ELL and/or AP Students).

MYSTERY SOLVED: PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Palmer Raids Arrest Thousands, Deport Hundreds in Violation of the U.S. Constitution

Philadelphia, PA—January 2, 1920—Sonia Kaross, a member of the Socialist Party, was arrested at her home. Under the Deportation Act, thousands of people were arrested for being “undesirable” because they held radical ideas. No warrant was issued for Kaross’s arrest, and she was never accused of committing a punishable crime.

Her arrest was part of the Palmer Raids, a series of operations targeting suspected radical immigrants. author and socialist Emma Goldman (who was also deported during the raids) commented, “If I am not charged with any specific offense or act, if—as I have reason to believe—this is purely an inquiry into my social and political opinions, then I protest still more vigorously against these proceedings, as utterly tyrannical and diametrically opposed to the fundamental guarantees of a true democracy.” None of the immigrants who were deported (or the tens of thousands arrested) was charged with a crime. All were living legally in the United States and were targeted because they were suspected to have held radical ideas often critical of government officials and U.S. laws.

Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer believed that radicals, communists, and anarchists were planning start a revolution in the U.S. on May 1, 1920—May Day, a date celebrated by communists and socialists around the world. The raids were an effort to head off the predicted armed uprising. The “revolution” of May 1920 never materialized.

A report published after the raids by a well-known group of lawyers and judges exposed dozens of violations of people’s rights during the Palmer Raids. In June 1920, a judge overturned hundreds of deportation orders, saying that there was not “a scintilla of evidence” against the majority of the aliens. At the same time, Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis Post (who was also in charge of immigration) overturned over 1500 deportation orders as invalid. The report and the cases all asserted that aliens, like citizens, were entitled to a fair hearing, due process, and the protections of the Constitution.
